BENEFICIARY DESIGNATION INSTRUCTIONS

It is important to keep your beneficiary designation current. In the event of your death, it will simplify the payment process for your beneficiaries. If you are divorced, be certain your beneficiary designation complies with the terms of your marital settlement agreement. Trusts named as beneficiaries may not receive a monthly continuance; however, if the death benefit is applicable, it may be paid to a Trust.

SECTION 1: MEMBER INFORMATION

Active members You must designate a beneficiary to receive benefits in the event of your death while still in active service. Remember to update your designation when family changes occur such as birth, death, marriage or divorce.

SECTION 3: TRUST INFORMATION

Complete this section if you are naming a Trust as your primary beneficiary. Use the language your attorney has given you when naming the Trust and include the tax identification number, if applicable.

SECTION 2: BENEFICIARY INFORMATION

Each person you name must have a Priority number and percent assigned. The priority number indicates the order in which beneficiaries are eligible to receive benefits. If beneficiaries share benefits, assign each the same priority number and indicate the percentage each is to receive. The percents of all beneficiaries with the same priority number must add to 100%. If you are married, your spouse may have superior rights over any other person you name as a beneficiary. Remember, some beneficiaries may not be eligible to receive certain monthly continuances or benefits. If your beneficiaries are not living at the time of your death, or if you do not have a DSA beneficiary designation at the time of your death, eligible benefits will be paid to your estate. The following examples may also help you complete this section:

An example if married with three children:

Priority Number		Percent

SECTION 5: REQUIRED SIGNATURE(S)

California Government Code section 31760.3 requires that notice be given to your current spouse (if you are married) whenever you designate a beneficiary. This section of the law also requires a spouse's signature on a beneficiary designation, unless you declare in writing under penalty of perjury the reason why a spouse's signature is not included. Therefore, you must sign in this section and if you are married, your spouse must also sign in this section. If you are not married (or if a spouse's signature is not included) you must check the applicable box and sign under the member's statement in this section.
